Golf in the Mexican Caribbean Grows to 10 Courses, With More to Open Next Year

GOLFERS ARE ALWAYS LOOKING FOR NEW courses to challenge themselves, and it doesn't hurt when the holes offer breathtaking ocean views of the Mexican Caribbean. Cancun obliged and opened its 10th course late last year. Three more courses are on the horizon.

The Riviera Cancun Golf & Resorts opened last November and has the support of Palace Resorts, which is a top developer of resorts, golf courses, and spas in Mexico. A signature Jack Nicklaus course, Riviera Cancun Golf & Resorts features a 76.2 rating and a slope of 146, strategic bunkering, immaculate greens, and a stunning fairways layout, as well as wooden bridges.
